

The right of the State to set standards that meet the needs of the people of that State should not be overridden by bureaucrats at the national level especially when trying to weaken the Do Not Call list.